This is surprisingly one of the best VR games currently on the market. It appropriately uses room scale, and does not have/need locomotion movement systems. The interactability of the penguins and their "boops" and "bops" makes for a truly immersive VR experience. There is no greater puzzle game currently for VR that has the gameplay, graphics, and mechanics of Waddle Home.. Sort of like Monument Valley, but in VR and with penguins. Puzzles get increasingly complex and need to be viewed from different angles to complete each level fully. Clever enough for adults but also all ages friendly.. Review updated after ending the game (around 2hrs for 40 levels). Very polished experience, with very nice music too. Being a puzzle game, the overall level of difficulty is not very high (depending on your skills too) but it's not as easy as Water Bears that don't offer any challenge for 95% of levels (and the remaining 5% is extremely difficult!). The game is good if you've the space, so you can walk around your level, but can be played also with a small chaperone. Suggested if you love puzzles, or simply want a polished vr game with a real start and a real ending.. Penguins are my favorite animal, thus this is my favorite game.. Your goal is to release cute penguins onto a level, who passively move through it: they only walk forward (you don't control them), and only turn right when they bonk on something. You look down on the entire level as though you were a kid standing over a playset (think one of those Thomas the Train tables). Because of this, the game feels smaller and involves no movement around your room. If you can only play standing up, this is the perfect VR game for you. Anyway, the penguins need to pick up eggs and then exit. To guide them, you can raise or lower blocks, thereby altering the penguins' paths. There are enemies along the way who can remove your penguins. That's it! Highly polished game, clean design, good fun. For an entry-level VR user who is looking to do something besides the tech demos and partial experiences that lack progression, this fits the bill nicely. It not a visual feast, but it's charm factor is AAA.. Itu2019s a puzzle platformer where you guide penguins to safety, avoiding aliens and robots. You know, normal day-to-day type stuff.. This game is awesome! You can tell it was made for the Vive. Easily one of the prettiest games I have right now. The gameplay is a lot of fun, and there seems to be a good number of levels. It feels very polished, not buggy at all unlike a lot of other VR games out right now. I got this game for 30% off ($7), definitely worth the price! Even seems like a bargain for $10.. If you are a fan of puzzle games you owe it to yourself to pick this up. Intuitive controls and a polished experience makes this game a must have.. Very cute puzzle game that benefits from VR. Penguins need to get to their spaceship, and always make right turns. You touch the map and alter the puzzle to help them.
